To this Mr. Byrom readily assented. As soon as they had got well into the room, and had closed the door, the robbers presented their pistola at his head and demanded his money. Mr. Byrom was a brave man and had no idea of being robbed without making some redistance. He immediately selzed a chair, and, without waiting to be attacked, commenced hitting right and left, perhaps in the hope that a beld front would deter his nuwelcome vilitors from further pressing their demand. All three is once fired at him, killing him almost instantly. Upon the body were fund three wounds, one in the broast, and one in the boweis. Any of these was sufficiently severe to prove fatal, Jut as the last shot was fired, and while his wife was entering the door, the urfortunate man fell back in the midst of his children and expired the alarm, but before assistance could arrive, the men had gone. The organization of the militia, it is thought, will accure quiet. Without a show of etrength and preparation, the necroes, actuated by the delucion of their ascendancy, and the whites being under ban, will naturally fall into excases, unless impressed with the necessity of industry and obgdience to lawful authority. It is hard to disable them of the delusion that they are to have properly eigen to them during they are to have property given to them during the Christmas holidays. Including the war. The amount for the corresponding period in 1858 was 40,024 bales. Including the amount at Houston, there have been received on the coast already, since 1st September, within a fraction of 80 000 bales—a much larger amount than most persons anticipated. How long the receipts will continue at the present rate—nine or ten thousand bales a week—is mere matter of conjectine, but most persons anticipate a falling off by the 1st of March. There is no cirtain standard of comparison apon which to base calculations for the entire year. Taking the past three months as a bale, however, 150,0.0 bales would not seem to be too high for the Gulf ports.

CALL FOR AN AGRICULTURAL CONVENTION AT FRANKFORT ON THE 11rm OF JANUARY, 1896.

At a meeting of the Kentucky State Agricultural Society, in Frankfort, on the 14th Instant, a resolution was adopted anthorizing the undersigned as a committee to call a convention to assemble in Frankfort on the 11th of Jauvary, 1866, under the anspices of the State Agricultural Society, for the purpose of considering the subject of labor in Kentucky. The present deranged condition of the labor system of the State renders it vastly important that steps should be immediately taken to supply the lack of labor, and, with a view thereto, to encourage the immigration of a desirable class of laborers to Kentucky. The undersigned, therefore, earnestly arge upon the farmers in all portions of the State to send delegates to the convention. Let every county be faily represented. The subjects to be considered embrace the most vital interests of the Commenwealth, and we hope, for the future presented and wealth of the State, but the

The joint exhibition of the Cecropian and Periclean Secieties of the Kentucky University last Friday night was an encouraging success. The audience was a select and appreciality one—the music, by Saxton's lamous band, was sweet and unsurpassed, and the efforts of the speakers such as to reflect honor upon themselves and their societies. "Deacon Stokes" was well done by J. H. Stover, of Ludoga, Ind. The subject "Line bunce nulla nita" was hundled in a chaste and elegant nature by J. S. Pael s, of Bath county, Ky. The eulogy upon the lancetted crator, "Thomas F. Marshall," was well written and earnestly spoken by J. R. Morten, of Clarke county, Ky. And "The Itab," by W. C. Price, of this city, was fed upon by the audience with considerable gusto. The exclude part of the performance, however, was the extemporations debate on the question, "as Iteland prepared for self-government?" The contestants being the presidents of the two rival societies, M. K. Lockhart, of this city, representing the Pericleau and G. W. Runck, of Sectoville, Ky., the Georopian. The debate was listened to with marked interest and attention, for the enbject was well handled and the speakers were repeatedly interrupted by rounds of enthusiastic applause. There were aome al lusions of a political character made by each of the speakers which might, with propriety, have been omitted; with these exceptions the exhibiting and we understand brought the sceleties a fair amount of that very necessary article—cash.

Forr years of war have left their marks apout the state of Kenincky. Farms have been desolated, houses have been destroyed, and railroad, canals, turnplies, and other improvements have been left unfinished. Peace at last has returned, and naturally people turn their attention toward mending what was destroyed, and to finish what had been left undone at the commencement of the war. The people of Kentneky, to accomplish this end, find them selves involved in great difficulties, principally arising out of the deficiency of manual labor. Thousands of her sors, who tilled the soli or followed mechanical pursuits, have failen on the field of battle, or have become unfit to resume their former avocations either by wounds received or diseases contracted; thousands have been withdrawn from the ranks of producers by speculations offered by the rise and fall of commodities or by the numerous contracts and offices of Government incident to the prosecution of the war.

To a much larger extent this disorder is feit in the labor of the negro, who, it is well known, supplied the principal demand in the rural districts. The institution of slavery, although rominally and legally maintained, virtually has almost casted to exist. The prospect of cmancipation, and the example of enrounding States has breken the bondage, before law has exited the matter, and produced an inbarmonious feeling between the master and slave, the consequence of which is, in most instances, a total relinquishment of labor on the part of the negro. Nor can it be expected that the passage quence of which is, in most instances, a total reliagaishment of labor ou the part of the negro. Nor can't be expected that the passage of the Constitutional Amendment, abolishing savery entirely, will be a complete remedy for these evils; first, because many of the masters will not cordislly acquiesce in the laws of enfranchisement; secondly, because a mere human enactment cannot in an instant invest beings who have been denacted as bondmen with the qualities of freemen.

Under these circumstances, it cannot be wondered at that many crops remain undoused, retting in the fields, and that improvements of all kinds remain unfinished; in short, that the scarcity of labor is felt most soverely at a time when sturdy arms are most needed to repair the ravages of a long and exhausting war.

No donot time, to a great extent, would cura these evils by the slow process of convulsions in thisiness, poverty, and suffering, by which many would be compelled to work with their hands who do not do it now; but this would be diesstron, and meanwhile our State would fail seek far behind our sitter State is all the delease the behind our sitter State is all the delease the behind our siter State is all the delease the behind our siter State is all the delease the behind our siter State is all the delease the period of the state is all the delease the behind our siter State is all the delease the period our siter State is all the delease the period our siter State is all the second of the period our siters State is all the second of the period our siters State is all the second of the period our siters State is all the second of the period our siters State is all the second of the period our siters State is all the second of the period our siters State is all the second our siters State is all the second our second our siters State is all the second our secon

The Sault of Ben. Jonson.—In the course of a paper recently read by Dr. Kelburne King. President of the Hull (England) Literary and Philosophical Society, before the members of that society, on "the recent visit of the British Association to Birmingham," the docion, in speaking of a visit which he and Dr. Richardson, of London, had made to Shakespeare's birthplace, at Stratford-on-Avon, unreated the following curious incident: He said that a blind gentleman, who thought that no one but the guide was present, mentioned that a friend of his had a relic which would be a valuable addition to the Shakesperlau Museum at that place—the skuil of Ben. Jonson. This Irland hud attended the funeral of Dr.—, at Westminster Abbey, when he perceived that the uext grave, that of Ben. Jonson Lad been opened, and he could see the skeleton of the body in the coffin. He could not result the opportunity of putting in his hand and extracting the skuil, which he placed under his cloak and thus carried off. From a remark which the blind gentleman drepped, Dr. Richardson thought be could deutify the offender and he asked if the persen's initials did not consist of certain latters. Why has the period of twenty-eeven years of freedom brought forth only such re-We do not know all the causes that may have contributed to these results, but, as frequently happens in cases of controversy, it will be found from the information which has percolated through various channels, that both the whites and the blacks have been at fault. The old principle of capital against labor came into operation. The ex-master tried to get as much work out of the freedmen as possible for the least money. The freed people were, no doubt, often ewindled, "gouged" in as many ways as the superior tact of the planters could suggest. That made the negroes discontented and sulen. They telt the pinchings of poverty. They became idle to a great extent and lived by theft. Thie, in turn, of course irritated the whites, and mutual hatred was thus nursed till the demon in the blacks took complete possession of their souls. Each side to the quarrel has been attempting to cheat and injure the other. The perroes refused frequently to make contracts for labor or quit them before they expired from distrust or dislike of their employere; the plantations thus went to ruin, and the owners instead of benefiting themselves by their short-sighted policy of scant payment, by their grinding policy toward the blacks, brought disaster upon both races. Each race banded together against the other. The courts were in the hands of the whites, and the blacks get but tardy justice, sometimes downright out-rage, out of them. To add to the disasters that prevailed, the planters, to be independent of the lazy negroes, imported coolies from Chine as laborers, who came in competi-tion with the blacks, and added fuel to the fire. The regroes were taxed for the articles they wore, and this was another cause which deepened the hatred between the two races. In a word, the black became an outcast, idle, smitten with poverty, and vicious. He became wretched, and fit for any deed. Then that unclean reptile, the demagogue, generally in Jamaica a mulatto, was there. He inflamed the minds of the ignorant and poor toward the comparatively affinent whites. Instead of telling them to go to work and work out their salvation, to trust to time and industry and law enming fires. Let our Southern people be warned. Justice is the first requisite to safety as well as to pros perity; and a policy that will encourage the freedmen to work, that will supply them with motives for it, that will raise them in the scale of civilization, that will make them comfortable and fill them with self-respect—a frank and liberal policy will be the very palladium of easisty for both whites and blacks and will secure their general prosperity and happiness.

The theme is prognant of the gravest reflections and of wast importance.

In the Superior Court, Boston, on Tueslay, Charles Stanley alias Albert M. Nickerson was sentenced to twenty-five years imprison ment in the State prison for highway robbery by garroting. Jeremiah Hayes and Frank Crawford, two other garroters, were sentenced to twelve and ten years each. That's the way o put the screws to such scoundrels. We should like to see a few more such example made of them.

The Foston Daily Advertiser has the f 1lowing interesting account of A. H. Stephen from a correspondent in Georgia:

from a correspondent in Georgia.

While in Augusta the other day I saw Alex ander H. Stevens—a little old man with mosmarvious eyes—looking not so much like anuman being as like a character from one on Dickens's stories. Yet if Georgians reverence any body it is Mr. Stephens; and there ien't the least question but that his presence in the Stat is beauficial in the best sense. He resists al importunities to make a public speech; but am told that he converses freely with all whe call upon him, and that he urges everybody to accept the isane of the war in a most cheerin and liberal spirit. While in Columbus tw. weeks ago, I was told of a letter he wrote to friend in that city immediately after the famon weeks ago, I was told of a letter he wrote to a rivend in that city immediately after the famous Hampton Roade conference. I tried in every way to get a sight of it, but without success. The gentleman who told me of it had read it, and used these words in respect thereto: "Ho said that peace could be obtained on terms not umiliating to the South, and that it enght to e made at once, but Mr. Davis and his princi-al advisers did not want peace.

We felt persuaded Mr. Stephens would act as his Boston correspondent says he is acting. We felt persuaded that he would advise a cheer ful and hearty acquiescence in the issue of the war, and that his presence in Georgia would be beneficial to the State and to the great work of organization and peace, the work of restoring the Un'on in the best sense of the phrase. Henc we urged his release and pardon.

Mr. Stephens is one of nature's noblemen; and from our heart of hearts we believe that every throb of his soul is in favor of the Union, of his country, and of his whole country. Mr. Stephens ought to be in the Senate of the United States. Let Congress repeal the test oath and receive into its body again with acclamations the great and good Georgian one of the noblest Romans of this or any other country. The only boats yet to arrive are the Panther and N. J. Bicley. The former has in tow seven barges (70 000 bushels), and the latter five gull y of such an act be likely thus publicly and barges (50,000 bushele) making the grand tota of coal for this market 640,000 bushels, Bu re informed there is a probability of this scious of guilt act? stock being reduced one-half by shipment South. Almost every river city in the South is under such circumstances. hadly in need of coal. In fact the demand from that source is far greater than ever heretofore Consumers in New Orleans are offering two dollars per barrel for coal, and those of other cities in proportion. This presents a field for safe spec-ulation, which will be greedily sought by coal Few, indeed, will be inclined to sall eir coal here at 23 cents per bushel, when, rel, they can ship it to New Orleans and realize 60% cents per bushel.

The only impediment to an immediate rush

stage of water and consequent ricks of navigation. Believers in this speculative theory say that a rise of one foot in the Ohio would signal port. Such a movement would leave Louisville in a bad, very bad box. And we hope our home dealers will strain every point to avert the exocus of one barge even. While every. thing looks favorable at present, the most ruin. one exigencies may be near at hand. It then behooves the merchants upon whom we depend for a supply of this commodity to "work while vet it is day." Let them, but for a moment, recall the untold suffering of our people in the winters of 1868-'4, and nobly fight off another anch coal famine.

In the descent of the coal fleet already mentioned, very beavy losses befell some of the owners. Between Pittsburg and Clacinnati no than twenty-one barges were stuck and surk. It is estimated that not more than onehalf of this number will be recovered. The loss is thus shown to have been, say ten barges, averaging 10,000 bushels each-100,000 bushels which, at the ruling price by the barge load, 28 cents per bashel, will aggregate $23,000 Those who deem the coal transportation business shogether safe labor under a slight STRANDOAT COLLEGION-THREE OR FOUR MEN warn.-We are pained to learn that the Cincinnati and Madison packet C. T. Damont and the towboat fleese collided at Big Bone Island on Thursday evening last, by which three or four men on board the Dumont were drowned. The collision happened at about half-past five o'clock. The Rece, on her return from this port to Pittsburg, with acveral empty coal barges in tow, ran into the C. T. Dumont, one of the barges striking and imbedding itself in house of the steamer. The barge had to be kept in that position as a support to the Dument, else, it is believed, she would have eunk before reaching abore. The men who lost their lives were on or near the wrecked wheelhouse. Soon after the collision, the mailboat meral Buell came along and rendered all ne the scene of the disaster to Mad-of forty miles. Owing to the great consternation that prevailed aboard the or causes of the accident.

Monorous -These are opposed to the spirit of our institutions. They militate against the prosperity of the community. They are odious. They are unjust. They are injuriou. They are grasping. They are soulless. They oppress the poor, and take the broad from their children's maths. Down with them—down with monopolles. Up with cqual rights and privileges. Up with free competition. It is the life of trade. Every chizen has a direct interest in giving the free-t scope to energy and enterprise, in multiplying facilities for business and travel.

These remarks apply directly to the city rallroad monopoly which is sought to be kept up among us for no earthly reason except the in-satisble greed of a corporation without soul business of carrying passengers through the etreets of Louisville. Every citizen, we repeat, has a direct interest in defeating its remorseless machinations by creating competition in this siners as well as in other kinds of business. What would be thought of a bank that should seek to monopolize within itself the entire other department of business. Down with it. we say. Give every man a chance. Let there be an open field and a fair fight.

THANSACTIONS IN REAL ESTATE. - The following sales of real estate were made by Mr C C encer at auction yesterday afternoon, the 15th instant: Two lots 30 feet front each by 161 deep, on the south side of Walnut street, between Thirteenth and Fourteenth, at $49 50 per foot, to Mr. Henry Struck; one lot 30 by 161 feet, west of and adjoining the above, at $50 per foot, also bought by Mr. Henry Struck; one Lot 30 by 161 feet, southwest corner of Madison and Thirteenth streets, to Mr. Lewis Hatty at 40 per foot; two lots $3% feet front each by 1 deep, south side of Madison street, between Thir th and Fourteenth, to Mr. B. Cassady at $32 % per foot; one lot 30 by 161 feet, north-east corner of Chestnut and Fourteenth street, to Mr. Ira Jones at $37 per foot; one lot 28 by 161 feet, east of and adjoining the above, to Mr. J. H. Westlay at $87.50 per foot; one lot 30 by 161 feet, north side of Chestnut street, between Thirteenth and Fourteenth, to Mr. Mike Bach at $36 50 per foot. There was a large attendance, and the bidding was spirited. The Democrat asks "why Henderson & Co. did not take the correct course to compel Mayor Tomppert to sign the Market-street railroad bill by suing out a writ of mandamus ' Oh, yee' If Mayor Tomppert and the City Railway Company could get Henderson & Co. into court they might have time, with the 'law's delay," to device some plan to carry out their corrupt bargain—their deep-laid scheme against the great interests of the city. But they need no flattering unction of hope to their souls. Their game is up. The compiracy is thwarted. The people of Louisville intend to have railroads wherever they can get them, and neither the Mayor nor the monopoly, nor both combined, will be more in the way than a feather in a storm. SKATING .- There was a epiendid formation of ice upon the ponds yesterday. The boys and young men in large numbers, and a few of the ones, too, repaired to the frozen waters south of Broadway and spent the day in skim-ming over the glossy surface. The skaters had a rare day's sport, and their auditors cheered them beartily

Wilson and his industrious little sons for their liberal donations and efficient aid in doing all the carpenter's work for decorating the room. The ladies will ever kindly remember Mr. Wilson.

> PRAUDULENT TRANSACTION .- Officers Marts and Dillon, of the city police, yesterday com-mitted to jail one J. B. Jones on the charge of stealing a check for $50 and getting it casted. The facts, as we learned them, are that Jones found the check in a letter addressed to a Mrs Jenes, and which he took from the post-office, enpposing it to be for his wife. Fearing to present the check himself, he paid the notorious Lord Isaacs $2 50 to have it cashed. Isaacs presented the check at the brokery of Bensinger, on Third street, near Jefferson, and eccived first $5 npon it, and subsequently $10 more. The cantion with which the brokers treated the check alarmed Jones, and he did not draw the balance. Moantime the Mrs. Jones to whom the check was sent from New York, having ferreted out the matter, called apon Bensinger and collected the amount for which the check was drawn. The result is that the broker is loser to the tune of $15, and Jones lies in jail with a "vigorous prosecution

WOOD'S THEATER-THE WEBB SISTERS Misses Emma and Ada were greeted by quite a large audience last night. We were truly glad o see so general a response to their call for a benefit. They are accomplished and worthy young ladles, and had the weather inen more propitious during their stay in Louisville, they would have been happily convinced of the apreciation and liberality of our play-going public. In the comedicts of the "Young Actress" Miss &da has few superiors. She received the highest marks of approbation last night. Indeed, we have seldom seen an audience better bumored than the one at Wood's last evening. Misses Emma and Ada make their farewell appearance to-night. The plays of "The Idiot Boy" and "The Young Actrese" will be repeat-Dumont, the officers of the Buell could obtain ed. KENTUCKY BOARD OF AID FOR PRESBYTERIA ASTORS.—We beg leave to call special attention to the card of this excellent and noble or ganization in another column of this morning's curnal. We cordially recommend the object which this Board has in view to all our readers and especially to our mercantile readers. The measure has been originated here, and we trust Louisville will make a magnificent response to the appeal made to her. Let her citiens stretch forth their hands and scat.er bread npon the waters. It will surely come back to hem. It will be good policy as well as Christian humanity. Let us send giorious cheer and ubstantial Christmas offerings to the poor pasto:s of the South. It will tend to make us rich netead of poor.

The Democrat justifies the corrupt bargain etween Mayor Tomppert and the City Railway company, by which, if the latter would use its nfluence, spend its money, and secure his election, that he would, as Mayor, sustantee it gainst a competing road on Market street. What do the people of Louisville think of that? An overshadowing monopoly is to be fastened npon the city; the most prosperous suburbs of Louisville are to be excluded from the advantogis of reflreads; the progress of the city is to le stopped, ard all to secure an election to the Mayoralty. The people of Louisville, in their might and wrath, will snap the bonds of such a eargain as if they were yarnstrings in the hands of an enraged glant.

LAST CHANCE -Go to the City Hall for you Christmas gifts. Children, buy presents for your elsters, brothers, and parents. Paients, bny toys, books, and fancy articles for your children, big and little. It need not hurt your conscience if you are extravagant at the Fair, because you are belping to feed the hungry and clott e the ill-clad. "Blessed is he that considere h the poor and needy; the Lord will deliver him in time of trouble." It is not too inte for donations, particularly from the dry go ds merchants, whose contributions, if not sold, will be ecut to those who greatly need them. 'Oar necessities must yield to our neighbors' extrem

FIBE LAST NIGHT -About fiteen minutes after 12 o'clock last night a fire broke out in the barber shop an coilliard room of a free negro named Trabue, on Ninth street, between Chest nut and Magazine. Before the flames could be extinguished, the barber shop and four or five other frame houses in the row were burned to details this morning. The members of the fire for the alacrity with which they sought the fire the flames. The night was so cold that the wa ter which fell upon the men and horses froze almost instantly, and they were little more than living icicles.

New Book -We have received from the Cosmopolitan Gift Book Store in this city a volume just published by Carlton, of New York, entitled, "The Humbugs of the World-an account of humbugs, delusions, impositions, quackeages-by P. T. Barnum." The motto of the work, "Wonderful, because mysterious," conveys a vivid idea of its contents. Burnum couldn't write anything nainteresting. The book will have a myriad of readers.

LOUISVILLE THEATER.—The attendance at this house last night was very fair, considering the unfairness of the weather. M'lie Marietta Ravel acquitted hereelf with exquisite grace and expressions both in her pantomime and rope-dancing seats. Peformances will be given ing in each.

PEDDLING WITHOUT LICENSE.—Officer Jesse Hammond yesterday committed to the city prison a man ramed John Reynolds, upon the charge of peddling jewelry without license. STEALING CLOTHING .- A WOMAN named lodged in jail by Officer Cave for stealing clothing from some unknown person.

lng at the Court hou c was another bilis success. There was an array of dazzling beant and melting leveliness, and flashing eyes and ndefinable charms, sweetness, modesty, and grace, such as can be witnessed when the sughters of Kentucky assemble together upon missions of mercy, and heaven looks down well eased. It is worth ten times the admission e to look upon so many beautiful beings whose countenances are lilumined by divine charlty. Surely the heart is eloquent when i. throbs to assuage the sorrows and relieve the wants of the unfortunate. Such taste as the dles have exhibited! What delicate caprice and fairy oddlines they can lavent to fascinate o tlease, to ralli; and how in invalingly the y regnes can find their way into one's pocket! Well, his no use talking. We can't do them stice. They must take the will for the deed. final feast of beauty, fun, and frolic. There will be some rare an tioneering! WASHINGTON, Dec 15. The United States Suprems Court to day and the arguent in favor of adauting Garand, ol Ark, and Murray, of La, to the purifice of practicing before courts without taking lead of Ark, and Murray, of La, to the privilace of practicing before courts without taking the test cath. The argument was made by M.

If Carpenter, of Wis.
Mr Carpenter said that Garland took part in the reteriou, but had been pardomed by the freedout. He asked to be readmitted to practice as a lawyer, but was m t by an act of Conguess requiring Him to take an oath tast he had not particulated in the rebellion. This act is a complete bar to the pentioners' rights. If it visitues the spirit of the Constitution it is void, and he held that any legi-lation is void which impress butches and hinders the exercise of rights secured by the Constitution.
Autorney-General Speed said he rejoiced as much as Mr. Carpenter that peace had again teauned. As he understood the argument, that gentleman had maintained that waile in rebetion against the United States, Mr. Gariand was sulf an officer of this court, with as much right to it as to locomotion and property.
On this Mr. Speed took issue. Incre never was a time when Courtess did not prescribe the iffices and regalla. The proposition is that by is teason Mr. Garlaud did not forfeit his office and it is insisted that the attorney in this conribods office now. There are public and private co-porations and there are offices in the Constitution and also by law. The attorney is not admitted to the bar for the purpose of giving him office. Congress has said that a court may cetablish rules.

Mr. Speed then controverted other prepositions of Mr. Carpenter. The place held by the Attorney was an office. Did he not know that the court could prescribe such rules as would deprive him of office? The power of Congress over qualification was known to him when he entered upon it. The decision had been made over and over again that Congress could prescribe qualifications. Offices are held at the will of the power conferring them, and the duties may from time to time be changed. There is nothing like penalty in law. It is qualification. As to whether qualification is penalty depends on the standpoint. A State may say a person under twenty-one years shall not vote or that he shall not vote until he possesses property qualifications. This court may say that a man practicing at its bar must have a fair character, and that he must have prached for three years in the highest court of his State. iair character, and that he must have practiced for three years in the highest court of his State. He would deprecate any act which would prevent runlon, but at the same time would desire Congress to pass such laws as would keep out of high places those who have not been filthful to the country in the past. Was there anything in the spirit of the Constitution—was it so framed that pardon arrests were armed of justice? Pardons prevent infliction of punishment, but it is not a key to enable the party to inlock offices of the Government.

The President has exercised his power in behalt the petitioner and also to make it impossible to inflict any punishment upon him for the crime of treason. There is an act of Congress which inflicts punishment and excudes him

A case of assault and battery is purished by fine, and not by civil disqualideation it would be tight for Congress to pass a larequiring a member to swear he had new committed such an offence. The positioner while guilty of treason, might have been purshed with death by order of the President all his rights, civil and political, and the holdin all his rights, civil and political, and the holdin of effice, as fully as if he had never been guilt of the offense of engaging in the rebellion Yet an act of Congress fixes a perpetual barrier this holding office, and is in direct opposition to padom. The President is trying to pardon an Congress to puties. The President may par deu for all offenses, and will be sustained by the Federallet and other authorities, including the former justice of court, the Constitution giving the President power to grant reprieve and perdons.

All pardons to be a constituted by the free same to day as at the period it was nace. Pard in which enable him to prosecute for find any only who may call him a traitor or felon. It regenerates him, and to call him traitor is to viorate the Constitution of England, and to deay the power of the king to make him a new man. This the Supreme Court has similarly decided. The gentleman remarked, that, while the parties says the recipient shall not be punished by they Contress says he shall. The President only gave him the light of every other didzen it is the party's own fault if he cannot take the coath. It has been decided by the authorities which I e quoted, that, while the pardon is a protection against all assaults for a thing done, it can never be the lonndation for a claim. BY MINERARA. Twice around the young here's grave Had Spring her offerings spread, And twice in beauty Summer gave Her roses o'er the dead; When I with wanderthe footstope strayed Amid the colone street.

Amid the solome gloom, Where many a brave young heart was laid, Twas when and Autumn in her turn,

To woo the songster's lay, fracture of flowers, bright glov Fresh garlande brought each day

And well I knew where tender care A fair, sweet girl, with golden hair, A mar, owes great, what gones mar, And form of stately grace, Ne'er falled to come at eve's soft hour To great her selder love, As if she thought affection's power Could have him from above.

AFTER THE RESELLION.—The history of mankind chows that great political and social con-vulsions are followed by periods of extraordinary intellectual development. The mental activity stimulated at such times produces philosophers, and men distinguished for remarkable qualities in other respects. The effect may not appear immediately, and sometimes many years or a generation may pass away before it is apparent, but it is seen in the end. National character, the spirit of the age, and many circumstances operate in quickening or retarding the intellectual movement thus set in motion, just as seed sown in a rich soil, and under a hot sun, will spring up and produce fruit much sooner than in a poorer soil and colder climate. Still, by a fixed law of nature, the fruit comes at last in one case as well as in the other. So we may confidently expect that after our rebellion there will be an intel lectual awakening and development corresponding to the magnitude of the events and revolution we have passed and are passing through,

The internal convulsions of Rome in the time of Julius Crear and immediately after his death were succeeded by that brilliant period known se the Augustan age. The wars and heroes of Rome might be forgotten, but the intellectual lowed, and were the consequences of that revotruly said that "the poetic and dramatic wealth and magnificence of the era of Elizabeth and James," in England, known as the Elizabethan age, "came, for the most part, out of the pas" some that had been stirred and the strength that had been acquired in the mighty contests and convulsions which filled, in England and throughout Europe, the middle of the sixteenth century." From this mighty awakening period arose, in unsurpassed splendor, such minds as those of Shakespeare, Ben Jonson, Bacon, Raleigh, Burton, and others. Another "breaking up of eld institutions and re-edification of the State upon a new foundation and a new princi ple" in the last 60 years of the seventeenth cen tury was followed by that galaxy of wits and fine writers of the age of Queen Anne. Milton, Dryden, Hobbes, Newton, and a host of other great minds rose out of this revolutionary period. It is worthy of remark that this mental remaissance commenced about the same time that the first newspapers were published. It was the era, too, when medical science, natnral philosophy, mathematics, and natural history were explored and shed light upon the with our own century," and the extraordinary specis, arose with and came out of, to some ex-tent, another revolution. The American Revoion of 1776, and the French Revolution rteen years afterward, upset the political ture had been silently preparing the public colonists of America; from a pure love of liberty, established a republican form of government, the speculative ideas of European writers of the eighteenth century spread with great was upheaved by the earthquake that followed. Paris became the great central volcano.
Wars and revolutions agitated the whole civiled. We see what effect it has produced upon erful progress that has been made in science and the mechanical arts. We have not felt it so much directly as the people of Europe, ugh it has exercised an influence over us is ome degree. The mental excitement caused by the astonishing events that closed up the ighteenth century and at the commence glish literature. Then appeared Wordsworth, Coleridge, Scott, Moore, Byron, Shelley, Hunt,

Wilson, Charles Lamb, Sidney Smith, and a host of other brilliant men. We refer to Enlish history chiefly to illustrate our views; but he history of France or of any other great civred nation might be taken for the same purnations, we may expect a great revival of men-tal activity in this country, as the natural conseence of our unprecedented war and the extra linary revolution we are passing through. uring what we may term the youthful period our existence, the American mind has been pied chiefly in material matters, in devel ing the resources of a virgin continent, in ommerce, in manufactures, and in the mechan-cal arts. In these we have made wonderful ogrees. In inventions, and the application of em to the necessities of life and the wants of the age, we are not behind the foremost nation in the world, and perhaps we stand first. The when applied to literature and the fine arts, will e us a pre eminence in these also. The public mind of America is now passing through that mentation which precedes great achieve ents. We think we see, however, the dawn at breaking of a new and grand period American literature and art. We have sed the full stature and vigor of manand in a bound, so to speak, within a lew years. With regard to the fine arts, inting and sculpture, we have only to go our public buildings and galleries, and to perous private collections, to see what les we are making, and this is evidently all around us. Although we cannot bos is certainly being developed a better style, well as more vigor of thought. The vast to literary pursuits, both men and women, The class of writers, too, who are springng up just now are young and fresh. Time improve the defects that are naturally into young writers or a youthful period terature. A vast amount of trash will be away; but there is no doubt that out of this movement we will discover many fine et" of a new and grand era of American litintion yet. But it will undoubtedly come, the natural consequence of the intellectual re the first faint streaks of the dawn of such AMERICAN PLANOS.—It is but a few years since we imported all our first-class piano-fortes Europe, and the possession of a Broad-ny, a Collard, or an Erard instrument was indispensable in the furnishing of a establishment Did a European perof celebrity, like Leopold de Meyer, or Thalberg, vicit us on a starring tour, brought his own piano with him from pe, not considering one of American see has progressed with giant strides, and are now admitted by the most proficient s of both hemispheres to be infinitely sum, in every respect, to those of the most Buropean makers, possessing more , brilliancy, clearness, and vib e, combined with lasting volume. This in London, where an American piano manufactured by Steinway & Sons, in New York, carried off, by unanimous consent of a jury of all nationalities, the leading and much-coveted gold medal prize from no less than two hundred and sixty-nine competitors, English and foreign; that medal, in the words of the award, being given for "powerful, clear, brilliant, and sym pathetic tone, combined with excellence of workmanship as shown in grand and square pianos." From that time the tables were urned, and, in place of importers, we have become exporters, and so large is the increasing demand for American planes abroad that it nearly rivals that for home consumption, these instruments being now found in all the capitals of Europe, and there regarded as priceless household treasures. In this connection we may mention that within the past few days Steinway & Sone, the London gold medalists of
